Emborios Bouquet

Original Available 🗹

I was having trouble re-starting the painting motor after watching my parents suffer through an illness my dad had for several months. This was the break through piece. I went outside of the house we were renting in Emborios and collected a few flowers from the massive profusion of blooms that covered the entire village. I unpacked my painting gear and set up in the quiet sunny and light filled living room. I dove in without taking the time to draw or make a study and it opened a little slit in wwhatever was blocking me.

Painted over July 4th weekend at the Hut when Ben, Erin, jenna, Kyle, and Andy were visiting. Jenna gave me bug spray which allowed me to continue. I was attracted to the curving cedars and the reflection on the water. I used color pencil to highlight the moss and boughs and some highlights in the water.

Thoris's Blue Boat

Original Available 🗹

This boat lives in a hidden bay on the "wild side" of kalymnos. While I was on a scooter coming back from errands with Dimitris, Thoris pulled up alongside of us in his car and explained that he noticed his boat was moved, and he suspected some peole had borrowed it during the night to go fishing. I had done a small study of this scene and gave it as a gift to Thoris. But he wasn't convinced at first that it was his boat, because the name was not visible on the painting. I learned alesso: to always include the name of the boat.

This was painted with sooo many distractions. I set up on the beach not far from the house. I returned to the house twice in order to get something I forgot. Then Dimitri called to see if I had bread because he had customers. I went to the house to get the bread and brought it to Yiamas, but it was frozen, so I cut it up and heated it in a pan, and also cut up the tomatoes for the salad. Then when I returned to my painting, I was asked to make reservations at Harry's for dinner. I went there twice to accomplish this task. I spent more time away from the painting then actually painting it.

Siurana Village

This view faced the tiny street that our 1879 house was on and the fancy hotel/restaurant that had the nerve to serve us cocks-combs - in their entirety! Martin thought they would be prepared as a pate or terrine, but no, there it was, like a severed finger, all by itself, on a plate.

I was standing with my back to the glorious view of the valley and Cornudella. We would sit on this point and have snacks and scotch at the end of the day. In the morning we would come out to the point and watch the mists and clouds that were low in the valley.

Devil's Head, Looking toward Pike's Peak

Original Available 🗹

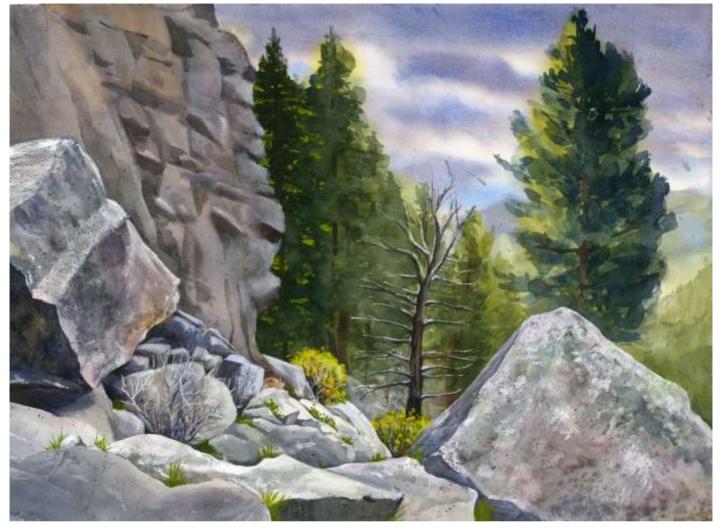

This trip was with Jim, Jenn Jordon, Colin, and a number of other people. Van trip for 2 weeks, and 2 weeks in a beautiful huse in Squamish. Show statement: Driving across the country gives one the sense of opulence of land. Roads that disappear in a straight line into the horizon are unforgettable. There are few landmarks and the ones that appear – small shacks, solitary farmhouses, grain elevators, canyons and mountains – stand out. Everywhere the eye falls, there's a paintable scene. A short scramble into the countryside with a painting backpack, and then rooting oneself to a single spot for 3-4 hours makes the time slip by unnoticed.

These paintings were all painted outdoors, on location, with some touch-ups done afterwards.

I had to arrive in Sydney a day before my flight, on my own. I reserved a ticket to see Angelique Kidjo. All my life I dreamed of going to see a performance at the Sydney Opera hosue and I was thrilled to be there. I spent the entire day there and at the nearby park with the colossol fig trees.
